

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

The present invention relates to a method of milling a material comprising aluminum and cast iron. By using a silicon nitride based cutting tool insert at a cutting speed of more than 1000 m/min, an unexpected increase in tool life has been obtained.